Group 1 – The following personal and institutional expectations for the project were highlighted at the X study visit:

- Establishing new contacts
- Learning through sharing and dissemination
- See the reality of what is happening in other institutions

Now that we’re almost halfway through the project:

- How well do these match with your expectations now?
- How well has CAMEL met these expectations so far?
- What could be put in place to help meet them in the future?

Group 2 – What actions have you taken arising from CAMEL?

Starter questions included:

- What did you take back to your own institution from the first study visit?
- What do you think you’ll act upon from this study visit?
- What other support could CAMEL provide in supporting you to review where your institution is with regard to Y?

Group 3 – Consider what themes should be explored within CAMEL

Starter questions included:

- Which themes have you found most interesting from the first two study visits?
- What themes would you like to see covered at future visits?

Group 4 - Discuss your initial views of the first online event

Starter questions included:

- How did the session meet your expectations?
- What did you find most and least useful?
- What additional prior information would make the session more useful?
- What would you like to receive after the session?

Group 5 - Discuss your initial views of this study visit

Starter questions included:

- How did the day meet your expectations?
- What did you find most and least useful?
- What additional prior information would make the visit more useful?
- What would you like to receive after the visit?
